Cured! FAYETTEVILLE, Tenn., November 27, 1882.—Duty compels me to acknowledge what S. S. S. has done for me. Six years ago I contracted a bad case of BLOOD POISONING. Not knowing the nature of the disease, I ignorantly allowed it to run on for some time. Finally I commenced using what physicians claim to be the only cure—Mercury and Iodine of Potash—which treatment resulted in only making me worse. I continued the treatment three long years—went to the Hot Springs, and returned home with constitution broken down, and was finally given up by the doctors.

As a last resort, I decided to try S. S. S. and after taking twelve bottles of the large size, found myself cured and undergoing the medicinal treatment of S. S. S. I was reduced to 130. My weight was 175 pounds, but it reduced me to 130. My weight was 175 pounds, but it reduced me to 130. My weight was 175 pounds, but it reduced me to 130.

THE ART LOAN.

Complete Description of the Treasures of the Julius Brown Room.

To-day will be a big day at the Art Loan exhibition.

A new consignment of miniatures, paintings, lacquer, etc., from Athens, has arrived and been put in position.

A choice musical programme by the band has been arranged for the night. Besides the band music the famous double-quartet will render several of their most beautiful selections, and there will be violin and cornet solos. The music alone will be more than worth the admission price.

The public schools will close at 12 o'clock to-day to allow the school children a chance to see the Art Loan, and hundreds of the happy little fellows will be on hand during the afternoon looking at the pretty things. Mrs. Ballard's school will attend the exhibition this afternoon in charge of the teachers.

Mr. Julius L. Brown will entertain the directors to-night at supper, and they will dine with Mr. H. W. Grady. The employees of the Singer sewing machine office will dine in a body at the exposition. Governor Stephens, if his health will possibly permit, will receive his friends at the exposition to-night. A school from Decatur will also be present.

The ladies have made special arrangements to have the restaurant serve expectations to-day, and the bill of fare includes oysters, raw, fried, stewed and roast, turkey stuffed with oysters, birds, venison, stews, devilled crabs, salad, ham, jellies, chocolate, russes, ices, creams, ambrosia, ice cream, cakes, coffee, and in fact everything that can tempt the palate.

Mr. H. W. Grady is the director in charge to-day. Mr. Julius L. Brown's collection.

Such has been said of the Julius Brown room at the exposition that we give in some sort a description of the most important articles it contains.

It may be said that the equal of this collection cannot be found in the south, if indeed its equal in interest and variety can be found in the country. Mr. Brown is famous as a collector, and his collection of coins alone cost over $25,000. He bought at an auction in London a number of rare silver half dollars, old bidding the collectors in that city and New York and getting it for $500. There are other coins even more valuable than this.

In China were Mr. Brown shows samples of every variety from Szechuan to Bilek ware, and the choicest specimens of the various styles of the various dynasties and saucers that cost their weight in gold. In vases, statuettes, plaques and bric-a-brac generally the collection is rich and beautiful. There is a chair that the great Bonaparte owned, placed over by Metternich, Bulwer, Louis XV, ancient books of all sorts, and pictures embracing Rembrandt and Claude Lorraine.

The "Brown room" is crowded all the time and days might be spent in studying its wonderful treasures. A similar attraction has not been offered to public view in this country since the late war. No one should miss the opportunity of seeing it. We present a detailed list of its most important features. Study the list and then decide if it is not well worth your while to go and see the articles themselves.

These models are very beautiful and are embellished from pictures and the great masters, Paul Veronese, Domenico, Poussin, Rubens, Bandinelli, Canova, Guido, Titian, Rembrandt, Michelangelo, Raphael, Carlo Dore, Leonardo di Vinci, Corregio, and others.

A large silver medal of Webster and one of Clay. These are unique in silver, there being no other like them.

A tray containing a series of various exposition and fair medals.

A medal of Hogarth in silver, a beautiful work, by Wyon. A gold medal of the North Georgia stock and fair association.

A tray containing a series of medals issued from the United States to commemorate various public men and events.

A tray containing medals of Napoleon Bonaparte—some sixty or more in number—illustrative of his marriage, battles and the various events of his life. A full set of medals—gold, silver and bronze—of the International exhibition.

CASE 2.
A tray containing a large number of bronze medals: a tray containing gold and silver medals and several States coins. In this tray is the rare Washington half-dollar, the Castilian half-dollar, the Confederate half-dollar, and the gold and silver coins of every variety from the American cents, also those issued by New York, Massachusetts, Virginia, Connecticut, Vermont, Louisiana, also, the rare Washington cents—the cents of 1794, etc.

A tray containing the rare American gold coins. The first year gold was coined was 1793, and several pieces of that year are here. Also a large number of gold coins issued in California. Also a tray containing coins and medals of Julius Caesar. A tray containing the great, Darius, Cromwell, Washington, Stonewall Jackson, Maximilian, Murat, Napoleon, Napoleon, Jerome Napoleon, and a gold coin of John George, of Saxony, to commemorate the first Luther centennial. Also a tray containing a silver bullet money, Java rupees, Chinese coins, Turkish coins, and many others. Also a tray containing a large number of medals of actors and actresses. Among them are Forest, Rachel, Jenny Lind, David Garrick, Mr. and Mrs. Florence, etc., etc.

A large number of medals of the popes—some forty or fifty in number. Also a beautiful Dresden flower vase.

The Venetian desk is inlaid with ivory, is next in order. It is very beautiful. Mr. Brown also has a table and two chairs of the same kind of work.

Upon this desk is a most beautiful Benares vase, all hand carved, with two exquisite Venetian vases and two lovely Royal Worcester vases.

CASE 3.
Containing the gems of Mr. Brown's numismatic collections. There is a tray of coins of Japan showing the old and their new system of coinage. There is a large gold coin about five inches long and three wide elliptical in form, and the bullion value of it is $100. Then we have a tray of Roman consular denarii, some forty or fifty in number, and all of them are older than the time of Julius Caesar. A denarius, as is well known, is in value about fifteen cents.

There is in this case also, a tray of Roman bronze coins, in number about three hundred; also a tray of Roman imperial denarii, about one hundred in number, and all of them more than fifteen hundred years old. Also a tray of English coins, some of them very rare. Also a tray containing rare gold and silver coins, among them the Annapolis shilling and sixpence, the Massachusetts half cent, shilling, sixpence, three pence, etc., the continental dollar, gold and silver coins, made at the mines in Mexico in the time of Philip V. king of Spain. Georgia gold coins, issued at Dahlonega and also at Bechtel, and the rarest of all a Louis XV. coin, struck for the French colonies in America. This coin is exceedingly rare, only three of them being known. Also a next rarest in all, the celebrated Carolina elephant penny, struck for Carolina in 1734, with an elephant on it. There is in this case also a tray containing beautiful specimens of ancient gold coins. A dario, the oldest known gold coin. A "Hecate" and eighth of a stater of Carthage, a stater of Alexander the Great, a stater of Philip II, the father of Alexander the Great, an aureus of Nero, an aureus of Trajan, of Augustus Caesar, of Tiberius Caesar, a solidus of Constantine, of Magnentius, of Herodius and other Roman emperors.

A tray containing rare Roman denarii among them the penny of the New Testament. "Who is this image and superscription?" And they say unto Him, Caesar's. Matt. 22, verses 20-21. Denarii of Augustus, of Marcus Antonius, of Octavianus, of Pompey, of Cicero, of Julius Caesar, coins to commemorate the capture of Judea, of Decia, of Armenia and other countries; denarii showing the ancient method of coining, of making oaths; denarii with heads of Juno, of Minerva, of Venus, of Apollo; coins to commemorate the peace of the Porcian law of appeal—to that law St. Paul referred when he appealed to Caesar; to commemorate the carrying away of the Sabine women; the treachery of Tarpeia, the victory of Metellus and many others too numerous to name. In this case also are two sets of medals in gold, silver and copper, which Mr. Brown had struck during the cotton exposition from dies there used. There are no others in existence in these metals, and Mr. Brown owns the dies, so that no other can be struck.

There is also in this case a beautiful Capo di Monte cup and saucer.

CASE 5.
In case five is his china and porcelain. There is a set of plates which formerly belonged to Napoleon III, also of Louis Philip, also of Bulwer, of Baron de Revere. There is also a beautiful set of Sevres plates, and one dozen of Miniature's most beautiful plaques, showing birds in all positions. Also an elegant Kutani cup, decorated by Kawan, the great Japanese artist, cup of Kaga, of Satsunan, of Uagaya, of Capo di Monte, of Sevres, and the best Chinese factories. There are beautiful Capo di Monte plates and Satsunan plates and bowls, and Cloisonne plaques upon the walls.

We desire to call special attention to two plaques, by the way the only pieces of color in the collection. One is of Ohio. They represent respectively the Circassian girl and the Polish woman. They are simply exquisite pieces of work, both in conception and execution, and are highly prized by Mr. Brown.

Mr. Brown has vases of various kinds upon the mantle and upon brackets. They are from China, from Japan, from India, from Venice, from the Sevres, the Dresden and the royal Worcester factories.

Mr. Brown has no color on his walls save the two plaques painted by Mrs. Governor Noyes referred to, but his black and white collection have in it pictures of Claude Lorraine, Rembrandt, Fischer, Albert Durer, Wille Corot, Raphael, Morgan, Drevet, Bartolozzi, Pissarro, Stranone, Sulpice, Rosa Bonheur, Dupeul, Jacquemart, Sulpice, Rosa Bonheur, Thomas Cole, Watson, Marshall and many others too numerous to mention.

Mr. Brown has the largest picture in the collection, and the largest reproduction of the same.

which were issued, and would sell in the market to-day for $250.

Wille's three master pieces—the Satin Gown, Death of Cleopatra, and the Musician's Ambulance are here.

Albert Durnor's Marriage of the Virgin is the oldest engraving in the collection.

Rembrandt's picture of himself is also of great interest. Mr. Brown has the case between the door and the fire place filled with coins of various countries and with old colonial and continental bills from every one of the thirteen states, also an album containing a large number of bills issued during the last war.

BOOKS.
In the center of the room is the table upon which Governor Brown wrote during the whole war. Upon it are rare and elegant books, notably an oval, with Picart plates, published in 1732. A file of the Box-on Chronicle for 1767 and 1768. A file of the Louisville Gazette from 1799 to 1804. An album containing one of every issue of the Confederate notes issued, Goulet's work on Roman and Greek coins printed in 1645, title page by Rubens, John Baptiste Du Vallo's work on the coins of the Caesars, printed in 1663.

He has also a copy of Gil Blas, which was presented to Mr. Julius Brown's mother by her cousin, James W. Fannin, who was murdered at Goliath, Texas, with his command. Also an atlas of the world, printed in 1713.

RELIQUARIES.
He also has a smoker's set consisting of a silver cigar box, silver lamp to light cigars, and six silver ash receivers. Also a Venetian and a Bohemian liquor set.

In this case is an electrolytic copy of the Confederate seal, a tortoise shell snuff box elegantly carved, which formerly belonged to the Duke of Buckingham; also three elegant Chinese carved ivory card cases, an ancient vinaigrette in silver, an old English silver milk picher, also an old French one, a set of Russian silver, a set of old Spanish silver, etc., etc.

CONFEDERATE RELICS.
Mr. Brown has the original Confederate battle flag of the Fourth Tennessee Confederate regiment, with all its bullet and shell holes in it. An album containing one of every type of the Confederate notes issued: an electrolytic copy of the Confederate seal; the hub of the die from which the Confederate cent was struck, and issues of the state notes issued during the war by the various Confederate states.

FAMILY RELICS.
Mr. Brown has also his great, grand father's clock, purchased by Joseph Brown in 1772. His great grandfather's trunk, and his snuff box. His great grandfather's key buckle. His grandfather's Grisham's seal, and his grandfather's Grisham's sampler, made by her in 1779.

SAVONOUS ARTICLES.
Mr. Brown has a chair which formerly belonged to Napoleon Bonaparte. It is an elegant rosewood chair. He has also about thirty medals of Napoleon, and also autographs of Napoleon, of Josephine, of Marie Louise, and of Napoleon's brothers and sisters, and thirteen out of his twenty-two marshals. Also a decoration of the Legion of Honor.

ANTOGRAPHS.
Mr. Brown has about five hundred autographs, embracing various statesmen, poets, etc. Among them Talleyrand, Pitt, Hastings, Louis XIV, James XVI, XVII, XVIII, George I, II, III, IV, James II, and Napoleon, Marshal Ney.

Byron, Moore, Campbell, Dickens, Saxe, Bret Harne, Wm. Gilmore Sims, etc.

ACTORS.
Charlotte, Cushman, Forest, Dion Bondi, Kean, Kemble, Wallack, Bernhardt, Patti, Booth, Keene, and many others, also various American statesmen and generals, including Washington, Patrick Henry, Adams, Hancock, Monroe, Jefferson, Clay, Webster, Lee, Lincoln, Stonewall Jackson, Johnson, Beauregard.

Miss Annie Russell visited the Art Loan yesterday, and, after seeing the collection, she herself pleased with the entire exhibition. The Japanese room monopolized her attention for half an hour. This young lady is better known as "Emeralda."

The diamond cases will be placed under the strong lights at the front end of the upper gallery. The display will be ready at 1 o'clock to-morrow. One thousand ladies will look at the wealth of precious stones during the day.

Go to the Art Loan to-day for lunch. Oysters, birds, turkey, crabs, salads, jellies, ices, cream, cake, fruit, coffee, cheaper than the restaurants. No admission fee.

Strikers Again at Work.
MONTREAL, December 6.—The weavers who lately struck in the St. Henri cotton mills have returned, and are now working by the piece, and making about twenty-five per cent. more than by the day's work, although they stopped out because the change was made.

SIDEWALK NOTES.
Stop, think and act. You can be speedily relieved of all kinds of Rheumatism—acute or chronic—by the use of HUNNITT'S RHEUMATIC CURE. It does not longer for it will relieve you. Sold by Watson & Bro., 14 Whitehall street.
Jan 16—day up to col 8p

From a Well-Known Lawyer.
I have taken Swift's Specific for Rheumatism and perfect relief. It also relieved me of Dyspepsia, from which I had suffered for years. I believe, from which I had suffered for years. I believe, when duly appreciated as a Tonic and Food, that Swift's Specific will become a household remedy.
D. P. HILL.
Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 15, 1882.

From a Well-Known Lawyer.
I had low by an attack of Bouchitis and Sore Throat, and my life was almost despaired of. When my physician said try S. S. S., I tried it for some time, but as I was not permanently laid aside from the active duties of my ministry, I decided to give the preparation a fair trial, and after persevering in its use I am completely relieved and am enjoying excellent health. I am clear of the opinion that Swift's Specific is one of the best alteratives and Blood purifiers in existence, and take pleasure in recommending its curative qualities to others afflicted as I was.

PERSONAL.
Mr. I. C. Plant, of Macon, is at the Kimball.
Major Joseph Ganahl, of Augusta, is at the Kimball.
Edward Taylor, business agent for Janauschek, at the Kimball.
Captain C. Rowell and Mr. Hamilton Young of same, are at the Kimball.
Colonel David A. Johnston and Mr. M. Petet, of Edison, are at the Kimball.
Hon. R. F. Ligon and wife and daughter, of Atlanta, have rooms at the Kimball.
Mr. Squire Dingle, a prominent merchant of Macon, is a guest at the Kimball.
Mr. Donalds Wike, editor and proprietor of the Cityville American, was in the city yesterday.

Only two more days of the exhibition. Go to-day or to-night and see the great show. Vocal and instrumental music to-night.

A Big Dollar's Worth.
A dollar will admit you to the Art Loan to-day, you a catalogue, a splendid supper, and street car and home again. Ask a lady to go with you to-day or to-night. It beats the theatre, costs less, lasts longer. Go to-day or to-night.

Was Every Thing.
During the day battling rain high and Ed. Mercer, champion of Mr. Goodwin won not only all of the change in the city but won Captain Hill's valuable wagon.

The Art Loan to-day for lunch. Oysters, turkey, crabs, salad, jellies, ices, creams, fruit, coffee, cheaper than the restaurants. Admission free.

The Lyric Club.
The Lyric club will hold its meeting to-night at the residence of Mrs. Sligh, on Wheat street. An excellent programme has been prepared, and to be hoped that a large audience will be present. Every one is invited.

Emerald.
This beautiful drama, portraying a realistic manner and without any overdone stage effects, the life of a pure, simple rustic North Carolina girl, who loved with a consuming passion, a brave but untutored young North Carolina farmer, a girl whose head could not be turned by the atmosphere of gay and fashionable Parisian society, was reproduced at DeGue's opera house last night, to much larger audience than the one of Tuesday night. In its deep pathos, beautiful tone, and quiet movement, it resembles Hazel Kirke. While the play has very little dramatic incident, and not much development of plot, yet, it awakens the deepest interest and appeals to emotions of the most universal sort. Last night, if possible, Mr. Owens simulated the character of "Farmer Rogers," the kindly and conscientious North Carolina farmer, better than the previous evening. His general impersonation and his fund of quiet good humor and unfeigned amiability was a capital piece of acting. Miss Annie Russell convinced the audience that while her personal charms are manifold, that these are secondary to her gifts as an actress. She not only possesses that wondrous gift in woman, a sweet musical voice, but she makes her role effective all through with a skill easier for them to describe. Mr. Owens and Miss Russell are not alone deserving of notice, for each and every character was presented with such artistic strength by the company that the audience was carried away and yielded itself to the impulse of expressing a most generous applause. In fact every character was in the hands of a thorough artist.

In the last "Mrs. Rogers" fortune is spent, she learns that "Dave" has been made rich by "a find" of valuable ore on his land, and she turns and sees her daughter's hands to the true and many North Carolinian, and the curtain fell on a happy ending of the play, and shut out a delighted audience. In the hands of the Madison Square Theatre company, Emerald will create a genuine enthusiasm wherever played.
